

Against a backdrop of declining market indices, ENR Russia Invest's net asset value appreciated by CHF 28.2 million over the first quarter 2007. The portfolio benefited from its heavy exposure to domestic orientated stocks particularly in the electricity and fixed line telecommunications sectors rather than the hard hit oil & gas exporters.

2007 is shaping up to be another record year in terms of new equity issuances. In April, several billion dollars worth of initial public offerings ("IPO's") came to market from a variety of companies, ranging from a heavy steel manufacturer to a baby food producer and a property developer. Overall we view this surge of IPO's as positive development (even if the present magnitude of share supply does create a short term overhang on equity prices). Many of these new issuers are, after all, raising capital to fund investment programs in high growth, non-energy related business segments and thus providing a key driver to sustaining broad-based economic growth.

Russian Central Bank's reserves jumped more than 10% in April – to $372 billion. While the country's buoyant financial resources are well known the monthly figure is nevertheless impressive as it alone represents nearly 4% of GDP and is equivalent to Russia's entire foreign currency reserve base only five years ago.

During early June 2007, ENR advised its shareholders and the investment community of a proposed restructuring which the board of directors of ENR ("board") will propose on 27 June 2007 at the annual general meeting. If approved by shareholders, ENR will be split into two separate SWX listed companies:

• ENR Private Equity Geneva SA
(to be renamed ENR Russia Invest SA)

This company will focus on private equity investments in Russia, other members of the Commonwealth of the Independent States ("CIS") and the Baltic States. ENR, in return for all the shares in ENR Private Equity Geneva SA, contributed all its existing private equity investments (other than the Sarnatus Trading Limited ("Sarnatus") investment due to structuring complexities). Accordingly, the private equity business will comprise the investments in Naftrans Limited, Redberry Resources Limited and Panariello Enterprises Limited (collectively, "Private Equity Assets"). ENR shareholders will be asked to approve a reduction in ENR's share capital, resulting from the proposed distribution of the ENR Private Equity Geneva SA shares to ENR shareholders.

Valartis Asset Management SA will be appointed as the investment manager to provide investment management services in respect of private equity investments in Russia, other members of the CIS and the Baltic States. This company intends to raise CHF 100 million to fund its investment activities and appropriate details will be incorporated in a placement document to be issued prior to the separate listing of this company on SWX.

• ENR Russia Invest SA

(to be renamed Growth Value Opportunities SA)

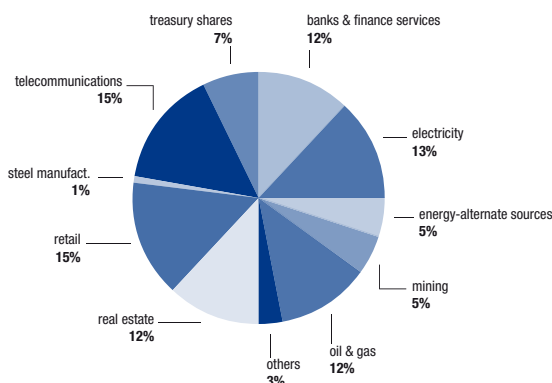

This company will focus on global investment opportunities (including Russia, other members of the CIS and the Baltic States) relating to traditional asset classes and, with the exception of the private equity investment in Sarnatus, will exclude all other ENR private equity investments. ENR shareholders will be asked to approve the change of purpose clause in ENR's articles and to approve the change of name.

ENR Private Equity Geneva SA will be spun-off to ENR shareholders and the split should take place in late September 2007, being the expected time of the listing of this company on SWX. Once the relevant dates have been confirmed, ENR shareholders will be advised accordingly. The board, in consultation with the lead manager of the 3.75% convertible bonds (expiring November 2010), will announce appropriate information in the financial press on the impact of the proposed restructuring on these bonds and the holders thereof and any steps to be taken.
